

Virtual Golf Tournament Definition

A virtual golf tournament event is a real golf tournament with friends, families or other interested parties in any geographic location (country, state, city, etc.). You can play on your own course, with your own foursome and register your round in an electronic app such as 18Birdies. All registered foursomes are a part of the same tournament regardless of where the round is played.

18Birdies allows you to select your course, select tees and play golf. As you record your score, 18Birdies app takes care of the scoring based on the course and individual handicap information. You will need to use your judgement on what handicap to use and compare your normal scores to others in your foursome to determine a prorated handicap. Should you not have an established handicap, you can use a maximum handicap of men's – 28 and women's - 32.

Virtual golf tournament characteristics:

- Individual stroke, Stableford, Best Ball, Scramble, Individual Stroke Play + Best Ball
- Events can be played on any course in the world
- Unlimited players and rounds
- Flexible start at any tees and courses
- Tournament duration from 1-day to up to 1-year